Why Southeastern Illinois College?

My name is Russell Paddick and I graduated from Southeastern Illinois College in May of 2011 with an Associate's Degree in Applied Science, Information Technology. I started my college career in the fall of 2009, attempting to obtain a Law Enforcement degree, but after the semester I changed to the IT program when I had heard from friends about how fun and knowledgeable the courses were.

During my final semester at SIC, I started an internship at Radiac Abrasives (a company that creates grinding wheels) in their IT department. Upon graduating I was given a full time job as a Network Technician and have since moved up to Assistant Network Administrator. I have traveled to Seattle, Mexico, Canada, Chicago, and Boston with my job, working with our parent and sister companies networks, and have headed up projects on moving from XP to Windows 7, creating and deploying company Apple and Blackberry apps, managing company servers, managing and maintaining a company help desk, and deploying a Mobile Device Management Server to handle company mobile tablets and cell phones.

My degree has given me many more opportunities than I could ever have imagined. I hope to continue my education in IT in the near future.
